PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

The Natural Beauty of Vegetable-Tanned Leather

Our vegetable-tanned leather is a natural, durable material, traditionally used in equestrian saddles and fine antique leather goods. Unlike the soft, refined leather found in luxury handbags, this leather has a more rustic texture, substantial feel, and distinctive character.

Handcrafted in Peru using traditional techniques, each piece celebrates the natural beauty of genuine leather. Variations in color, texture, grain, and natural markings—including occasional scuffs and imperfections—are inherent characteristics of the material, not manufacturing defects.

Vegetable tanning uses plant-based tannins and is an alternative to conventional chrome tanning, reflecting our appreciation for traditional craftsmanship and more natural processes.

No two pieces are exactly alike. These natural variations are what make each piece truly unique.
