SOFA MEDICI

The Medici fainting sofa is a classic 1800's design that Peninsula home put their own spin on. The historical design was meant for women who had trouble breathing from corsets is now seen as a fashion statement rather than a practical piece to rest. The very traditional hand carved base is juxtaposed with a silk indigo velvet. The fluid lines of the corner piece are both dramatic and elegant with intricate diamond tufting on the seat to complete this rich look. Upholstered in California for precision and attention to detail. Peninsula home offers many finishes, leathers and fabrics, we also accept your COMs and customizations with ease!
